

Meet Century's Newest Associate, COLE!

COLE may be a robot but he's perfectly suited to serve as our "Century On-Line Electronic Assistant." He is even appropriately named for the job!

COLE's mission is to scour Century Online for previously quoted business that didn't bind. Once located, COLE automatically sends a quote based off the previous year's data.

COLE provides a quote that is bindable once operations, loss history, and premium basis are verified for the current year.

COLE is programmed with three primary objectives:

- Be Helpful: Providing quotes affords producers a qualified lead and reason to reconnect with the retail agent. Forget cold calls! Providing a quote also gives another option on renewals. If neither is needed, no worries! You won't hurt COLE's feelings!
- Operate Efficiently: Inundating email boxes with quotes that won't bind isn't helpful and wastes time. To avoid this, COLE identifies target business he knows will produce a competitive quote. COLE releases quotes a set number of days prior to the effective date. This, coupled with only quoting target business, ensures no producer is bombarded with unwanted correspondence.
- Provide Actionable Solutions: If COLE quotes, you can bind! Just verify that current exposures match the quote and that there have been no changes in loss history or operations.

COLE is eager to start working for you but, in order to start receiving quotes you must subscribe to our email list using the button below!

Questions about COLE? Contact your Century Underwriter.

Our newest team member is built to assist!

Subscribe Here